DONIPHAN - Hastings College Mobile Glass Lab instructor Michael Beahm, with the help of his assistant John Rohweder, spent the day at Doniphan-Trumbull School demonstrating how the process of glass blowing works to D-T students Wednesday, April 24.

During the demonstrations, the artist explained the entire process to help students understand the science behind working with glass, including the characteristics of glass, adding and mixing colors, how temperature influences the process and more.

The mobile glass blowing studio travels to high schools across the region.
