

IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Hastings study away program starts in August

Hastings College's new curriculum begins in August, so students, get ready to leave the country.

Hastings' study away program is available to all second-year students. It is funded in part by donors, and students participate at no additional cost to them.

For the August 2019 group, students can choose a class that will include travel to Peru, France or Canada. For the March 2020 block, they can choose from France, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Spain, Mexico (and Arizona) and Washington, D.C.

The college offers two blocks so students in sports, music or other endeavors don't have to miss their activity.

"To go out and see the world is the best way to gain an understanding of different cultures and different perspectives," said Hastings College President Travis Feezell.